Types of Data Collected

Personally Identifiable Information

Personally Identifiable Information (PII) is any data that could potentially identify a specific individual, including, but not limited to:

- Name
- Title
- Job Title
- Employer Name
- Postal Address
- Telephone Number
- Email Address

If you submit any PII relating to other people to us, you represent those people on their behalf and agree that you have the permission to do so.

This information may be collected by the Foundation online through its website, <http://www.gscf.org> when you submit a contact form, register for a webinar or event, subscribe to our email newsletter, or download content.

The Foundation may also collect PII from you offline in situations such as Foundation events, phone calls with staff, Foundation surveys, or making a donation in person or via mail.

The Foundation does not share any PII submitted on our website or offline with third parties.

Personally Identifiable Information may also be submitted online when applying for Foundation grants and scholarships, when using the online donor portal, or making online donations. These actions are all done through a third party contracted by the Foundation to provide those services and are governed by a separate privacy policy. Please see the "External Links" section of this policy for more information.

Cookies enable the Foundation to track and target the interests of our users to simplify and enhance the experience on its website. Once the user closes their browser, the cookie information is no longer available through the Foundation's server. You can set your browser to notify you when you receive a cookie, giving you the chance to decide whether to accept it. If a user rejects the cookie, they may still use the Foundation website.

An IP Address is a number that is automatically assigned to the computer you are using by your Internet Service Provider (ISP). An IP Address may be identified and logged automatically in our server log files whenever you access this website, along with the time of the visit and the page(s) that you visited. Collecting IP Addresses is standard practice and is done automatically by many websites, applications, and other services. An IP Address does not enable the Foundation to access personally identifying information, such as email addresses.
